

CV – Dr. habil. Juergen Helbig

Juergen is senior expert at the European Commission and currently working as coordinator for international chemicals policy in the Sustainable Chemicals Unit of the Directorate-General for Environment. He is in charge of the international work under the Rotterdam and Stockholm Conventions and the Strategic Approach to International Chemicals Management and their implementation in the European Union. Prior to those tasks, he was involved in the implementation and further development of the pesticides legislation of the European Union.

Before joining the European Commission, Juergen worked for 2 years in the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development and for 15 years as researcher and assistant professor of plant protection and plant health at the Humboldt-University of Berlin and other universities in Germany.